

Dear Sir/Madam,

While conducting online research on creative writing jobs I came across your post on Remote Europe website and am submitting my resume and my cover letter for your review and consideration.

I have done write articles on various topics including human resources training and development recruiting business management and social media. I have also written press releases email newsletters and articles on various subjects related to business and job search questions and have received excellent ratings from my clients. I enjoy conducting the necessary research to make my articles relevant current and interesting and I bring my industry knowledge and experience to every project I tackle. I enjoy the freelance writing experience and am also open to a contractual arrangement as mentioned in your ad.

I look forward to hearing from you either by email or by phone at your earliest convenience. If you require writing samples of a more specific nature I'm sure I can provide them. Thank you for your time and consideration.

Sincerely,

Kelvin Ngeiywa